

Gas social dialogue committee: making progress on skills, CSR and European policy

(19 March 2010) An animated and constructive discussion on CSR took place between the trade union side and the Eurogas side for the employers. The topic had been on the agenda but little progress was made so far. Following the discussion the following steps have been agreed:

- The trade union side will provide comments on a text proposed by the employer and which will become the umbrella.
- 4 key themes have been identified (health and safety, restructuring, equality and diversity, skills and qualifications)
- A more general description will be provided for each of these themes to have a common understanding and provide a basis for further work

Best practice examples will then be identified. These best practice examples will serve other companies for inspiration.
